Many people have sleep problems. They usually stay in bed for long hours but can't sleep. Sometimes they wake up at night, but they can't sleep anymore. If so, they may not do a good job in the daytime. A family doctor gives some ways to help people have a good sleep all night.

First, in the daytime, don't work too much, or we may feel too tired and couldn't sleep at night. On the other hand, don't sleep for long hours in the daytime. When we feel tired, just take a nap. That's enough. Also, our drinks have something to do with sleep. For example, don't drink too much wine. Before bedtime, try not to have too much water or other drinks. In the late evening, don't drink tea or coffee. Then, don't do exciting things before going to bed. Try to go to bed at the same time and keep away the bed if it's not time for bed.
