3.

I was just a young man then. People always asked me, "What do you want to do in the future?" I didn't know, and I never thought about it. I always said, "It's difficult to say, but maybe a plumber."

One day, Mr. Bean from next door came and asked, "Hey, you want to be a plumber, right? I have a job for you, young man. Come help me." I didn't have any plans that day, so I went to his house to fix the kitchen for him. Mr. Bean was very happy with my work, so he passed my name and phone number to other people. The next day, Mrs. Black called me to ask me to fix her bathroom. Then Mr. Love and Mrs. Sung called, and I got more jobs. After that, I didn't put my wrench down for sixty years, and I enjoyed every minute of it.
